

Cameron Atkinson

Cameron Atkinson is a dual J.D./MBA candidate in the Quinnipiac class of 2020. He currently serves as the Business Managing Editor for the Quinnipiac Law Review and a visiting editor for the Harvard Journal of Law & Public Policy. His legal internships include time with United States District Judge Vanessa Bryant and the Hartford State's Attorney's Office where he saw firsthand the effect opioid addiction can have.

Prior to attending law school, Mr. Atkinson served as the lead US Human Resources officer for a multinational startup. His previous work experience includes extensive consulting work in the areas of Human Resources, organizational structure, organizational planning, finance, accounting, marketing, and capital raising.